Description

Baltic RAD is one of the largest virtual radiological diagnostic clinic in the Baltic region. Our office employs 15 doctors-radiologists with deep experience in clinical practice at Lithuanian Health Sciences University Hospital of Kaunas, Vilnius University Hospital Santariskiu Klinikos (Santariškių Klinikos), Vilnius University's Institute of Oncology and The Medical Diagnostic and Treatment Centre in Vilnius. Our staff also includes a group of engineers whose focus is on 3D image segmentation, processing and reconstruction. They have all been brought together to form teams that are grouped according to their accumulated clinical experience and specializations – providing full coverage in all specialties. Baltic RAD was established in effort to bring together the highest category of doctors and radiologists, with the goal of providing remote radiological diagnostic services to health care institutions located in other European Union countries.

Business Line

Teleradiology (remote radiology reporting) and 3D reconstruction services

List of products

Baltic RAD has the most modern radiological image, storage, transmission and analysis equipment and provides radiological analysis, diagnostic and medical consultations as well as 3D reconstruction services. Communication with customers and the provision of services is done in cyberspace and by phone. Baltic RAD does not perform radiology imaging onsite. One type of service is provided to hospitals with emergency departments, while other customised services are offered to diagnostic and out-patient clinics, general practitioners or directly to patients. Export of professional radiological services Baltic RAD was established in order to bring together the highest class of Lithuanian doctors, radiologists, medical engineers and medical professionals with the goal of providing complex radiological services to health care institutions located in European Union countries. Baltic RAD employs doctors-radiologists with wide experience in clinical practice at the LSMU.
