Description

Vainora UAB has been engaged in the production of ecological biohumus (earthworms processed litter manure) for 7 years already. During this period, we have gained a lot of experience, improved production process, and therefore we have been evaluated for quality not only for the existing customers but also for the partners in the wider markets. The production of biohumus is a long and thorough process that can not be accelerated, and a significant level of quality of production is determined by appropriate maturation.
