Description

Esquoia is a new start-up firm looking to manufacture the next generation of notebooks. The brand primarily represents a future product's design and features. The first product to be released is a reusable whiteboard notebook. It is different to those currently available on the market. Its features extend the functionality of a standard notebook. Pages of the notebook are made from fine materials that allows it to be reused many times. It's a smart, reusable, sustainable and environmentally-friendly product.
